23	TO ALL PARTIES AND COUNSEL OF RECORD:
24	The Court has reviewed and considered the various administrative requests, including that for
25	clarification and for a change in the operative schedules. Accordingly, the Court HEREBY ORDERS
26	and CLARIFIES as follows:
27	1. The Court maintains the trial date in Epic Games, Inc. v. Apple, Inc. . Because the trial is a
28	bench trial, it can proceed virtually or in person. The Court has already conducted one virtual bench trial successfully and has at least one more scheduled this spring. That is not an option for many other trials on the Court's docket. Given the backlog, which is being created due to the pandemic, the Court must proceed as efficiently as possible.

Northern District of California United States District Court

- 2. With respect to the parties' request in the Epic Games matter for clarification regarding the filing due January 22, 2021, the parties shall follow the model proffered by Epic Games, Inc. (See Dkt. No. 230-1.) If true, that the elements are basic and easily found in treatises as Apple suggests, then the filing should require little effort. The Court will allow ample opportunity to argue the relevance of any claim or the applicability of the facts to the elements identified. The goal of the filing is not to pre-argue the case but to set forth the unencumbered legal framework and to identify whether any legal conflicts exist which the Court should evaluate in advance of trial irrespective of the application of the facts of this case to such framework.
 - 3. Class certification briefing in In Re Apple iPhone Antitrust Litigation and Donald R. Cameron v. Apple Inc. shall be extended as follows:
 - Class Certification Motion shall be filed and supporting Expert Reports with all data upon which they are based shall be produced by June 1, 2021.
 - Class Certification Opposition shall be filed and supporting Expert Reports with all data upon which they are based shall be produced by August 10, 2021.
 - Class Certification Reply shall be filed and any Rebuttal Expert Reports with all data upon which they are based shall be produced by October 12, 2021.

• A hearing is hereby scheduled for November 16, 2021 at 10:00 a.m. PST.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

23 Date: January 8, 2021
